The James O. Hall Research Center (JOHRC) at the Surratt House Museum may make digital copies of items from its collection available to researchers, organizations, and others for a variety of uses. Anyone wishing to use reproductions of collections materials must first submit a written request and receive approval. This process gives the JOHRC the opportunity to verify copyrights, credits, and fees. All digital images will be delivered via email or WeTransfer (no subscription required for access), depending on file(s) size. All digital files are scanned at 300 dpi as pdf or tiff format, as requested. Fees are outlined below, and the requestor will be invoiced for the required fees once the request has been approved. Please allow 30 days from receipt of payment for delivery of requested files. You must submit separate requests for different projects.
